DID YOU KNOW?

Japan is one of the few countries not directly inspired by traditional English school uniforms. Although the use of school uniforms wasn't prevalent until the 1900s, uniforms are now a common sight in Japan.

DID YOU KNOW?

In the 1920s, Australian boys were often seen wearing short pants and peaked school caps to school just like boys in England. The major difference was that boys in Australia tended to go to school barefoot, something English boys would never do.

DID YOU KNOW?

The first recorded use of school uniforms is in England in 1222. Students at one school were required to wear a robe-like outfit called a 'cappa clausa.' However, it wasn't until the 16th century that modern school uniforms made an appearance in recorded history.
